Let them lie-ah, let them lie! Placked flowers-dead to-morrow; Lift the lid up quietly, As you'd lift the mystery Of a buried sorrow.

Let them lie-the fragrant things, All their souls thus giving; Yet no breeze's ambient wings, And no useless water springs, Mock them into living.

They have lived -they live no more; Nothing can requite them For the gentle life they bore. Which to up-yield in full store, It did so delight them.

Yes, I ween, flower-corses fair! Twas a joyful yielding: Like some soul heroic, rare, That leaps boldly forth in air For its loved one's shielding.

Surely, ye were glad to die In the bund that slew ye; Glad to leave the open sky, And the airs that wandered by And the bees that know ye;

Giving up a small earth-place, And a day of blooming Here to lie in narrow space. Smiling in this smileless face With such sweet perfuming.

O ye little violets, dend! Confined from all gazes, We will also smile and shed Out of heart-flowers withered, Perfume of sweet praises.

And as ye. for this poor sake, Love with life are buying, So. I doubt not. One will make All our gathered flowers to take Richer scent through dying.
